This is a function from Backbone.Firebase. The problem is that the document ids are not listed in the order that they were added. I am guessing this is because Firestore is allocating ids as they're needed. Is there any way to load the Firestore ids in the order in which they are added to the collection? this.docCollection = firebase.database().collection('documents').orderBy('created_at', 'desc') A: Firestore doesn't guarantee any order in which documents are created. There's also no way to get the document ids that's not the same as the order in which you added them. Sci-fi manga is still a hard sell.
